Few companies have requested increases

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Cost of Living Council said today "about 20 to 25" major companies proposed price increases on the first day of the new Phase 4 anti-inflation program Monday.

"The action has been pretty light," said Charles Emely, assistant council director for operations. He said he did not know what firms had requested price increases, although Chrysler Corp. and Armco Steel Corp. announced they were among them.

Ford Motors Co. was expected to join them later today.

Council Director John T. Dunlop said at the news briefing that beef slaughter totaled 100,000 Monday, "up a fair amount" from the week before.

He said the daily beef slaughter now is only about 10 to 12 per cent below July and "any notion that smaller and smaller amounts of beef are being slaughtered is not true."

Emely said he did not have any indication on the extent of price increases under Phase 4 by small and medium size businesses. They can raise prices immediately if justified by higher costs.

Companies with more than $100 million in annual sales must give 30 days advance notice of proposed increases.

Emely said that as firms became more familiar with Phase 4 requirements "we expect the volume will pick up ..."

The proposal for price increases are to be made to 29 district offices of the Internal Revenue Service. IRS is responsible for administering much of the Phase 4 program at the local level.

The council and the administration continued to give every indication of sticking to their plan to maintain ceilings on beef prices until Sept. 12, despite protests from the beef industry that the action will result in serious beef shortages and higher prices later.

Another council official, Dawson Ahalt, deputy director of the Office of Economic Policy, indicated there may be some need for export controls on some grains, such as durum wheat.

Ahalt said projected supplies of some kinds of wheat are "tight" for meeting both domestic and foreign demand.

Ahalt also said that wholesale prices of broiler chickens apparently have started to ease in the Southeast United States after rising sharply and added that this might bring about a small decline in retail chicken prices.

The request by automakers and steel companies for price increases confirmed what the administration had been saying—that Phase 4 means higher prices for the consumer.

Food prices already are up sharply under Phase 4, and increases for clothing and paper products were likely within a short time.

The Cost of Living Council has not indicated how it will treat the price increase requests from the steel and auto industries, but it has a 30-day period in which to block or postpone the increases if it wishes.

Investigation launched

Pettis County Sheriff Emmett Fairfax, left, addresses members of the Missouri Rural Major Crime Squad prior to a briefing held Tuesday morning to familiarize the members with the facts gathered to date in the brutal slaying of Karen Jones, 1218 East Fifth. The 20-man squad, under the direction of Marshall Police Chief Joe Carroll, will conduct the investigation of the killing. Mrs. Jones was found stabbed and strangled in her home Monday morning.

American warplanes hammer insurgents

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) — American warplanes hammered at Cambodian insurgents around Phnom Penh today on the final day of U.S. air attacks in Indochina.

South Vietnamese sources in Saigon said that South Vietnam flew several thousand soldiers of Cambodian descent to Cambodia this month.

The South Vietnamese government and the U.S. Embassy denied the report.

The troops reported airlifted to Phnom Penh were drawn from South Vietnamese regular military units and groups of civilians with military training, the sources said.

Neither the Cambodian nor the Saigon government has announced agreement to involve South Vietnamese soldiers in the Cambodian war against Communist-led insurgents.

In Washington, it was announced that Iran has accepted an offer to replace Canada on the four-nation International Commission of Control and Supervision in Vietnam. The other members are Hungary, Poland and Indonesia.

American B52s and fighter-bombers blasted the insurgents all around the Cambodian capital.

Taking advantage of a break in the monsoon overcast, American F111s, F4 Phantoms and A7 Corsairs flew round-the-clock missions to unload a maximum bomb tonnage.

U.S. air combat operations are scheduled to end at 11 a.m. Wednesday, or midnight EDT. It will be the first time since 1964 that the U.S. Air Force isn't bombing somewhere in Indochina.

American pilots concentrated their attack today south and west of Phnom Penh, the directions from which the Cambodian command believes the Communist-led insurgents of the Khmer Rouge will attack the city when U.S. air support of the government is ended.

Authorities investigate brutal murder of girl

Twenty members of the Missouri Rural Major Crime Squad met at the Pettis County Courthouse Tuesday morning to begin their investigation of the brutal murder of a 16-year-old Sedalian.

Karen Jones, 1218 East Fifth, mother of a two-month-old daughter was killed by strangulation early Monday morning in her modest duplex apartment. She also suffered five stab wounds in the chest.

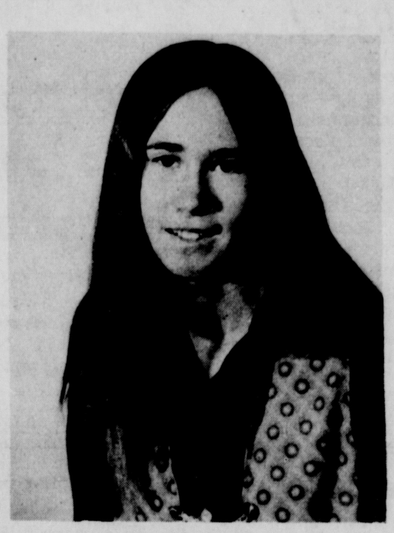
Sedalia Police Chief William Miller said Tuesday the girl "possibly" was raped. Dr. John Owens, Pettis County coroner, said he has conducted tests to determine whether the girl was sexually molested. However, he declined to comment on his findings pending notification of authorities.

Joseph Neel, Route 1, the victim's landlord, discovered the body at 12:45 p.m. Monday. Neel reportedly entered the girl's apartment to do repair work.

Neel told police he knocked on Mrs. Jones' door, failed to receive an answer, went to a side window and called inside. Neel told police he didn't see anyone, knocked again and then let himself into the apartment with a pass key.

Neel said he noticed Mrs. Jones' body on the living room sofa from behind the door. He said he locked the door behind him before summoning police.

According to Chief Miller, Mrs. Jones was last seen alive about 11 p.m. Sunday by friends who were visiting at the apartment. Neither Miller nor Sheriff Emmett Fairfax would release the names of these people.



Karen Jones

Pending the release of the final autopsy report, the time of death was set between midnight Sunday and the "early morning hours" Monday, Fairfax said.

Dr. Owens said Monday night the stab wounds were apparently inflicted after Mrs. Jones was strangled. This conclusion is based on the condition of the body. He also said some device or weapon was used to strangle Mrs. Jones. Facial bruises were, apparent, Dr. Owens said, reportedly the result of the initial struggle. She was clad only in a nightgown when the body was found.

Dr. Owens surmised two weapons might have been used in the stabbing. Fairfax said two different types of stab wounds were evident, indicating that two weapons were used.

Three of the stab wounds entered the abdominal cavity, the coroner said, with one inflicting damage to the area of the liver. Two of the five stab wounds resulted in superficial injuries, he said.

Dr. Owens said he first saw the body about 2 p.m. Monday and that the victim had been dead "for several hours." He said Tuesday it may be "as long as two weeks" before the final autopsy report could be completed. He said analysis of stains, materials and tissues is needed before the final report will be available.

No arrests have been made in connection with the incident.

Members of the 13-county investigating team were briefed by Miller and Fairfax at 9:30 a.m. Tuesday in the circuit courtroom of the courthouse.

After further investigation Tuesday morning, the squad was scheduled to undergo a second briefing session at 2 p.m. Tuesday, according to George McBroom, Warrensburg, information officer for the squad.

Fairfax said evidence picked up at Mrs. Jones' apartment will be analyzed at the

Impoundment procedure assailed by Randall in Rotary address

The principle of unlimited Presidential impoundment of Congressionally-appropriated funds was criticized severely by U.S. Rep. William Randall, D-Mo., in an address to Sedalia Rotarians Monday afternoon at Bothwell Hotel.

"I am opposed to it (impoundment) because I believe it sets a dangerous precedent for Presidents," Randall said. "...Four years from now we're going to have a different President and, in the future, under this principle, a president could conceivably impound all funds allocated for national defense."

The Fourth District representative explained that, in his view, the potential danger of complete impoundment of funds by chief executives reflected not partisanship but priorities. He also stressed he did favor limited impounding of funds in certain instances. "There are some instances in which I feel impoundment is necessary in the interest of efficiency," he said.

Commenting on governmental deficit spending, Randall remarked that "backdoor spending," in which funds are not expended in exactly the manner in which they were intended to be used, can often serve to continue the deficit-spending cycle.

He then suggested "zero-based budgeting," in which budgets are annually reviewed from the bottom up, as one possible means of correcting this situation.

Randall also rapped Congressional critics who he said maintained that no legislation of consequence had been passed during the current session.

"We have absolutely stopped the bombing in Cambodia the day after tomorrow (Aug. 15) and we are currently working on a land use bill, pension legislation and campaign spending legislation," he said. "I think we've done our work and fulfilled our responsibility to our constituents and our country."

When questioned regarding action he has taken to deal with the fuel shortage in this district, Randall said he was particularly concerned with reported instances of "dealers having gas in their tanks, but not being able to sell it."

Randall said he plans to personally check with Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) officials in area counties to determine how the fuel shortage is affecting farm productive capacity.

He also warned of a possible "heat shortage" this winter in the Midwest, especially if areas in the East experience abnormally harsh weather. "We may be in for lack of heat, but that's just the way it

Aide indicates Agnew will release records

WASHINGTON (AP) — An aide to Vice President Spiro T. Agnew has hinted that Agnew will turn over to federal prosecutors the financial and tax records they seek in an investigation of political corruption in Maryland.

"I would not find it surprising if it develops that the lawyers are proceeding in that manner," J. Marsh Thomson, Agnew's press secretary, said Monday night. He said Agnew intends to "provide everything which is pertinent at the appropriate time."

Meanwhile, sources close to the investigation indicated that attorneys for Agnew had made arrangements to meet today with prosecutors running the probe. The prosecutors would not confirm or deny the reports.

Judah Best, one of Agnew's lawyers, refused to comment beyond saying a decision would be reached this week on whether to release the documents to U.S. Atty. George Beall in Baltimore. Beall had asked Agnew to turn over the records by 2 p.m. Thursday of last week.

The records sought by Beall date back to the beginning of Agnew's two-year term as governor of Maryland in 1967.

Agnew disclosed last week that he is under investigation by a federal grand jury for possible violation of tax, bribery, extortion and conspiracy laws. Never before has any president or vice president been involved in a criminal investigation while in office.

Agnew said the charges against him were "damned lies."

It was reported Monday that at least four Baltimore County contractors have told federal prosecutors that they made cash payments to Agnew in hopes of getting favored treatment in the awarding of government consulting contracts.

Two of the four, said to be bargaining for immunity from prosecution, were identified by sources as Lester Matz, a partner in the Baltimore consulting engineering firm of Matz, Childs and Associates, and Jerome B. Wolff, president of Greiner Environmental Systems, Inc.

Joplin stamp effort pledge by congressman

Fourth District Rep. William Randall, D-Mo., pledged Monday after a speaking engagement at the Sedalia Rotary Club "to take my hat in my hand and see the boys (United States Postal Service officials) downtown," in an effort to secure a commemorative stamp honoring Sedalia ragtime composer Scott Joplin.

At a press conference in the Sedalia Chamber of Commerce building, Randall was presented with a notebook-application for the stamp-issuance complete with Joplin's history and a design drawing for the stamp by Scott Joplin Festival coordinator Larry Melton.

Melton praised Randall for having a "good track record when it comes to commemorative stamps." In the past two years, Randall has helped secure commemorative stamps honoring the Missouri Sesquicentennial and the late President Harry S. Truman. First-day issuance ceremonies for both stamps were conducted in the Truman Presidential Library in Independence, which is Randall's hometown.

Although not overly optimistic regarding his chances of securing approval for the issuance of the proposed Joplin stamp, Randall did say he would personally pursue the matter.

"I believe one should approach any effort of this nature on a note of optimism, but, I believe our chances of getting it could be more accurately described as neutral at this point," he said.

Randall also indicated he would inquire regarding the possibility of the Joplin celebration committee receiving a federal fine arts grant to help finance the project.

"Again, we have to realize that agencies and people from all over the country are also seeking these funds, but I'll do all I can to help you out," Randall told Melton and Festival Chairman Ed Kehde.

In other business Monday, the Scott Joplin Ragtime Festival Committee accepted articles of incorporation and made plans for the election of officers. The group voted to sell contributive shares in the Festival, beginning in September.

The contribution amount will be voluntary and shareholders will have the right to elect the next executive committee, it was reported. Proceeds from the sale of Festival shares will go toward payment of expenses for the event. Contributions will be accepted only from individuals.

The committee then agreed to accept the conditions of a contract with the Missouri State Fair for the use of the grandstand for the Festival. Ed Kehde was named to head the physical arrangements division of the Festival. The committee also is considering publication of a book written by a former Sedalian, W. D. Hill, which concerns Sedalia as the birthplace of classical ragtime. Hill was a former news editor of The Democrat-Capital.

Mass murder before grand jury

HOUSTON (AP) — Dist. Atty. Carol Vance took the largest mass murder case in the nation's history before a grand jury today. A boy who reportedly escaped from the homosexual-torturers blamed for the killings was expected to be an early witness.

Sources in the office said testimony would be presented by Billy Ridinger. The boy's age and background were unknown, but his name was in a statement given to police by one of two teen-age youths charged with murder in the investigation that has led to the discovery of 27 bodies.

David O. Brooks, 18, said in a statement signed Friday, "I was also present at that address that they got Billy Ridinger. I took care of him while he was there. And I believe the only reason he is alive now is that I begged them not to kill him."

The first witness to be called into the Haris County jury room was Donald Mullican, a Pasadena police detective who was among the first officers on the case.

Meanwhile, Ridinger, accompanied by his father, waited in a room in Vance's suite of offices. The father shielded his son from photographers and refused to permit him to talk with newsmen. The youth appeared to be 17 or 18, was rather tall, with long blond hair that touched his shirt collar.

Vance is expected to present evidence gathered since last Wednesday when Elmer Wayne Henley, 17, telephoned police in suburban Pasadena that he had shot and killed the alleged leader of the torturers.

The search for additional bodies ceased late Monday after four bodies had been found on a weatherbeaten strip of beach on the Gulf Coast some 70 miles east of Houston.

Brooks, Henley and Dean Allen Corll, 33, who Henley said he shot to death last Wednesday, allegedly were involved in a homosexual torture-murder ring.

Brooks and Henley are being held by police under $100,000 bonds.

Federal grant available for Housing Authority

The Sedalia Housing Authority learned in a letter from the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) that it is eligible for $7,260 in additional funds for the 1973 fiscal year.

Meeting Monday night, the authority approved sending HUD a resolution to accept the offer and a revised budget, the only requirements needed to obtain the money.

The Rev. Marvin Albright, director, indicated the money should be available to the Housing Authority by the end of the year.

The authority's board of commissioners heard the suggestion from Mrs. Lavon Criner, a resident, that the authority now begin planning activities for youngsters next summer.

Her request was for "something that will keep them occupied. If we can get them occupied . . . they're not going to end up running around tearing things up."

Mrs. Criner suggested more durable playground equipment and for teenagers she stressed the need for a place to hold dances or parties. She said the youths should be responsible for the organization of these activities and should make their own rules and enforce them.

The commissioners urged her to share her thoughts with the residents' steering committee and to seek the participation of more residents.

"I think we can get some things lined up for next spring," authority chairman E. Glenn Lewis told Mrs. Criner.

Commissioner Clyde Robinson echoed the need to have authority-resident cooperation. "I'll tell you one thing," he said, "we can work miracles if we can work together."

Mr. Albright told the group he was still seeking a concrete solution to possible insurance coverage for authority personnel. As efforts to obtain information from Blue Cross and Blue Shield and the National Association of Housing and Redevelopment officials has produced little, Mr. Albright was authorized to seek possible coverage from other coompanies as well.

In other business, the board authorized a pay increase for employe Don Murray from about $320 per month to $360. It also voted $100 to secretary Judy Bell for purchase of items for interior decoration of the receptionist's office. It voted to close the office at noon on Sedalia Day during the Missouri State Fair and allow personnel to have the remainder of the day off.

Eight counties have 100 airports

ARLINGTON, Tex. (AP) — A $1.5 billion aviation industry is centered in the eight-county Southwest Metroplex, a 6,214-square-mile area around Dallas and Fort Worth.

The area supports some 100 airports and more than 75 miles of runways.

Eighteen foreign airlines have offices in the Metroplex, and nine regular airlines and seven commuter lines make more than 800 flights daily.

Kennedys involved in accident

HYANNIS, Mass. (AP) — Two sons of the late Sen. Robert F. Kennedy escaped serious injury when the open car driven by one of them overturned on a winding and hilly highway. One of the five girls riding with them was seriously hurt.

David A. Kennedy, 18, suffered a possible sprained back when the car driven by his brother Joseph P. Kennedy III, 20, flipped over Monday afternoon on Nantucket Island. Nantucket police said Joseph Kennedy was issued a citation for operating a motor vehicle negligently.

David was reported in satisfactory condition at Cape Cod Hospital here. Joseph was not hurt.

A spokesman for the hospital said one of the five girls was in serious condition with a possible spine fracture. She was identified as Pamela Kelly, 19, of Centerville, Mass.

Mary Schlaff, 23, of Grosse Point, Mich., was hospitalized with a fractured pelvis and right leg. She was listed in good condition.

Torbin Yates, director of communications for the hospital, said David was visited Monday night by his mother, Ethel, and other relatives from the Kennedys' Hyannisport compound.

Yates said the youth had no fractures. It was not known how long he would remain at the hospital.

Police said the car, a Toyota, overturned on Polpis Road. The young people were thrown about 20 feet.

A spokesman for Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, the boys' uncle, said the senator would have no comment on the accident.

Steel traps topic for discussion

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — The Missouri Conservation Commission will discuss the use of steel traps Wednesday at its regular meeting.

A proponent and opponent will speak on the controversial issue, but no decision on whether to revise the rules on use of the traps will be made until a later date, said a spokesman for the Department of Conservation.

Gov. Christopher S. Bond, an opponent of steel traps, has asked the commission to review its rules.

On Monday, petitions bearing 8,700 signatures were presented to the governor's office, urging the prohibition of steel jaw leghold traps in Missouri.

They were presented by Jeff Miller, a free-lance writer from Kirkwood. He said the names represented a cross section of Missourians, including hunters.

Miller called the traps "indiscriminant and inhumane devices" and said the conservation commission should ban their use.

Florida man dies in traffic crash

WILLIAMSBURG, Mo. (AP) — Morris Keith Sanders, 22, Shalimar, Fla., was killed Monday in a two-car crash on Interstate 70 near the exit leading to this central Missouri town.

The highway patrol said his car skidded on wet pavement, crossed the median and struck an oncoming car.

Ann Landers

His dreams lead to wife-whacking

Dear Ann Landers: I was interested in the letters from the wives of snorers. I should be so lucky. My husband is a hitter.

Kevin and I have been married 16 years and he insists on one bed. He has always been a restless sleeper but in the last few years he has gotten worse. From time to time I have suggested twin beds. His answer is always the same. "Over my dead body." Once I answered, "Don't tempt me." He gave me a dirty look and I haven't mentioned twin beds since.

In the last few months Kevin has given me two black eyes and a nosebleed. When I wake him up it's news to him. He doesn't know a thing.

This is his explanation: When he was a kid in South Boston he used to sleep with his brother Mike. They fought all the time. (They still do.) When Kevin punches me he says he is dreaming about his childhood and he thinks he is hitting Mike. Does this make any sense to you? — Black And Blue

Dear B. and B.: After 16 years I would hope that your husband doesn't think he is still sleeping with his brother. Dreams often go back to early childhood and it may well be that Kevin is reliving his youth. You are generous to give him the benefit of the doubt. He should be equally generous and buy you twin beds for your birthday or anniversary, whichever comes first.

Dear Ann: What precautions are taken in your office to make sure no letter is accidentally printed in the newspaper?

I wrote to you about a very intimate problem recently and I would be humiliated if that letter should appear in print. I asked that my letter not be published but now I am worried sick that perhaps it might slip through. Please put my mind at ease. — Irene Of The Sleepless Nights

Dear S.N.: Every word that appears in this space goes through my typewriter three times. I keep the original letters beside me to make certain I get the facts right. Before I start to put together a week's column I read all the letters one more time to make sure the writer has not asked that his letter not be used in the paper.

No letter is printed "by accident." So good night, Irene. Get some sleep.

Dear Ann Landers: You have printed several letters in your column about smokers. This one might be the best one yet.

So many people continue to smoke because they figure the damage has been done.

Last week I came across an article while waiting in my doctor's reception room. It was so encouraging I took out a pencil and write down the key sentences. Here they are: A chest surgeon wrote, "Those dirty, black, tar-filled lungs can be restored to a new state of pink purity in from three weeks to three years after the smoker quits — depending on how long he has smoked." In other words, diseased lungs CAN and DO clear up if the smoker stops before a malignancy begins.

This information will give new hope to those who continue to smoke because they think it's too late to quit. Sign me — I Feel Better Already.

Dear Feel Better: Thank you for what will be the best news of the day for a good many readers. And now, all you hackers, coughers and polluters — there IS hope for you, so do something about it.

Doctor looks at headaches

By AP NEWSFEATURES

NEW YORK (AP) — Migraine gives women a real pain.

Of more than 10 million Americans who suffer from migraine headaches, 75 to 80 per cent are women, according to the National Migraine Foundation.

Dr. Seymour Diamond, foundation president, profiles the typical migraine sufferer as female, intelligent, trim and a hard-driving perfectionist with a history of headaches.

Each year, 2,000 persons have a new migraine headache, he added.

Diamond's organization is two and a half years old and was patterned after the British Migraine Foundatio, a unit of lay people, and Migraine Trust, composed of physicians and scientists.

"When I visited Great Britain to talk about my headache studies, I was amazed by the amount and quality of research being done on migraine. There is widespread financial support among lay people for research, and this in a nation where there's no income tax deduction for contributions," Diamond said.

"I was impressed with the character and type of research. Almost all of our work is drug oriented because it is supported by pharmaceutical donors."

Diamond said the Chicago-based migraine unit is the first to study headache in the United States on a massive scale. So far the foundation has awarded two grants for migraine study to colleges.

"I would say that 90 per cent of the headache problems seen by the average physician are psychogenic in nature. Eight per cent are vascular, one-sided or cluster migraine. Two per cent of headache complaint is caused by organic disease," he added.

If a person has migraine headaches, it is likely his parents suffered from them, also. After heredity, factors which cause the headaches involve personality. Intelligent people who are compulsive and precise often suffer from migraine.

Diamond said that more than $400 million is spent annually on across the counter headache remedies.

"That's why we want to learn the cause of migraine, develop methods of relief and organize treatment centers throughout the nation. We need to educate the medical community and the public about migraine," he said.

"In addition to drug therapy, we are investigating biofeedback. Volunteers are working with special equipment to learn to control the temporal artery every time they feel a migraine coming on. This has worked quite well with younger people, but it seems to be difficult for older individuals to learn to control the autonomic nervous system."

Diamond says migraine can be controlled with drugs, but that doctors often fear to prescribe them because of possible side effects.

The youngest patient treated at the foundation clinic so far was 4 years old. The oldest was past 70.

Polly's pointers

Paper yellowing is special problem

Polly's problem

DEAR POLLY — Can anyone tell me how to wrap newspapers that have special articles I would like to save, to keep them from yellowing? — MRS. B.H.

DEAR POLLY — My Pet Peeve concerns baby's white shoes. I do not see why they cannot come with those scuff-resistant toes that are commonly found on shoes for older children. I am sure many mothers would agree with me that a toddler who is crawling or just beginning to walk needs them as much or even more. We would not have to deal with those ugly scuffed shoes that even polish does not cover. — Mrs. MRS. W.H.S.

DEAR POLLY — S. B. P. wanted to know how to fix a gully in front of her home. Fill the gully with rocks so the water can flow through. After it is filled as high as needed, lay light tar paper or heavy plastic over the rocks and put about a foot of dirt on the top of this rock bed. Of course, the amount of dirt will depend on how deep the gully is. (Polly's Note — Do allow for shrinking of the dirt after it is wet.) Plant grass seed and you will have what I think they call a French drain. The tar paper is to keep the dirt from falling between the rocks and blocking up the drainage. — MRS. C. R.

DEAR POLLY — I have several flat, round pliable plastic bowls, about six inches in diameter, and found it hard to get the lids on correctly and was wasting time trying to get them on. Finally a bright idea struck me. Why not heat the lid in hot water? That procedure has been known to help ease the lids off jars so I did just that and the lids snapped on the very first try. — GEORGIA

Our gas bill is going up too!

We thought you'd be interested in the reasons behind the application for a natural gas rate increase we recently filed with the Federal Power Commission — because it will affect the cost of gas we deliver to your local gas company.

Operating an 8,300-mile pipeline system is, believe it or not, basically pretty similar to any other business — we have certain operating expenses such as wages, materials, supplies, tools and taxes.

And the cost of every one of these essentials is increasing, just as the costs of operating your business or your household have been increasing.

We buy the entire supply of natural gas that we transport to your local gas company through our underground pipeline system — and the price we pay for the gas has been going up, too.

But in addition to higher costs, our reserves of natural gas are diminishing, which means that in order to continue to serve the nearly three million people in our service area we must obtain additional supplies of natural or synthetic gas — or both.

So in addition to the increased cost of normal operation, we must make substantial expenditures for additional gas supplies — such as advancing millions of dollars to producers to encourage drilling and thus add to our conventional reserves of natural gas.

This is the situation that led us to file the application seeking an increase in rates that amounts to about $21 million annually. To make this figure meaningful, it is equivalent to about 75 cents per month for the average family residence supplied from our pipeline system.

Meanwhile, we pledge our continued vigorous efforts to render dependable natural gas service to the 501 communities we serve in Kansas, Missouri, Oklahoma, Nebraska and Texas.

Bridge bind

Traffic was held up for about two and one-half hours Monday afternoon when a dump truck loaded with sand collided with a tractor unit pulling a 12-by-70-foot mobile home on a narrow bridge near Flat Creek Inn on South Highway 65. The incident occurred at 4:20 p.m. No injuries were reported but the mobile home was demolished and damage to the dump truck was reported to be extensive. According to the Highway Patrol, neither vehicle was in violation and the wreck was apparently due to the width of the two vehicles combined with the fully loaded truck which the Patrol said could not stop in time. Escaping injury were Kenneth H. Davison, 25, Buffalo, driver of the southbound dump truck, and Robert Outhouse, 48, Belton, driver of the northbound tractor-mobile home unit owned by Morgan Drive-Away Inc., Elkhart, Ind. A 20-foot section of bridge railing was bent from the collision and debris from the mobile home floated down Flat Creek. Three wreckers were needed to dislodge the vehicles and clear the highway. The trailer home was being towed to a Sedalia dealer.

Girl

State Highway Patrol's laboratory in Jefferson City. He said Sgt. Robert Place of the Patrol's analysis division was conducting an investigation for possible fingerprints Tuesday.

Fairfax said the squad would remain in Sedalia "until we reach a conclusion," which, he added, could be as short as "two days or as long as a week — or longer."

Neither Fairfax nor Miller would specify the types of leads involved in the case. "We're going to explore every possibility . . ." Fairfax said.

"We've assigned our leads and, as in any case, it will be a process of elimination," he added. "We're still in the dark as to who it (the murderer) may be."

Miller said authorities have identified about six persons who were known to be at Mrs. Jones' apartment at various times Sunday night.

Mrs. Jones was living alone with her two-month-old daughter, Corena, at the apartment, neighbors said. A family member said the infant was staying with Mrs. Jones' father, Pat Wagner, 617 East 17th, at the time Mrs. Jones' body was found.

Mrs. Jones was married to Ronnie Jones, 19, residing in the 2100 block on East Broadway, but was separated from him. Fairfax said the girl had been renting the apartment at 1218 East Fifth since about Aug. 1.

According to Neel, a brother of Ronnie Jones arrived at the apartment shortly after police arrived Monday afternoon. When he identified himself, Neel said, police told him to take them to Jones, which he did. Jones was then brought back to the scene and questioned by police. He was not questioned again Monday night, Miller said. Jones was later released.

Authorities said nothing was found as of noon Tuesday that might have been used to either strangle or stab Mrs. Jones.

Miller said the two doors to the apartment could be locked simply by closing them, explaining why the doors were reportedly locked when Neel entered the apartment Monday.

Police collected several pieces of evidence from near a heater in the apartment. Fairfax said the contents of Mrs. Jones' purse had been spilled near the stove, but would not speculate if any money was taken from the purse.

Miller said the apartment adjacent to the one rented by Mrs. Jones was also being rented, but the police chief and Fairfax said they were not able to disclose who the renter was. Neel could not be reached for comment Tuesday.

Fairfax acknowledged that this case had similarities with the recent murder of a 22-year-old coed in Maryville, Mo. The Northwest Missouri State College student, from Chillicothe, was stabbed and strangled with a stocking.

Three years ago Wednesday, Mrs. Barbara Jean Galliher, 22, 2404 North Woodlawn, was murdered at her home while alone. Death in that case was attributed to "asphixia secondary to strangulation," but there were no stab wounds. The case remains unsolved.

The head of the present investigation here, Police Chief Joe Carroll of Marshall, requests that anyone having information about any aspect of the homocide call the squad at 827-0164. All information will be held in "strict confidence," he said.

Fairfax said many members of the squad assisted in the investigation of the death of Otha Brown, LaMonte, who was found tied to a tree in February near LaMonte. That squad was known as the West-Central Missouri Major Case Squad.

Besides Miller and Fairfax, the Major Crime Squad consists of Sedalia Police Officers William N. Rains, Joseph W. Bass, William Shobe and Gary R. Pitts Sr.; Deputy Sheriffs James Lawson and Don Stratton; Joe Carroll, Marshall police chief; Keith Berry, Warrensburg police; James Donley, Lafayette County; Gunzel Howerton, Saline County; Dan Fisher, Marshall police; Ray Goring, Higginsville police; R. G. Place and M. D. Buessing of the Highway Patrol; George McBroom, Robert Fink, Glenn Bennett and Jerry Albertson, all of the Central Missouri State University police department.

Mrs. Jones was born at Corona, Calif., Jan. 24, 1957, daughter of Patrick and Christine Smith Wagner. She received her education at Sacred Heart School, graduating in 1972. She was a member of Sacred Heart Church.

She was married March 2, 1972, in Sedalia, to Ronald Jones, who survives.

Surviving besides her husband and daughter are her father, Pat Wagner, 617 East 17th; her mother, Mrs. Christine Young, 644 East 10th; a brother, Pat Wagner, 644 East 10th; two grandmothers, Mrs. Julia Wagner, 646 East 10th; and Mrs. Maggie Smith, Birmingham, Ala.

Funeral services will be held at 9 a.m. Thursday at Sacred Heart Church with the Rev. Mark Miller officiating.

Burial will be in Calvary Cemetery.

The rosary will be recited at 8 p.m. Wednesday at the Ewing Funeral Home.

'Cyclist injured in accident here

A Sedalia woman suffered a fractured collarbone Monday afternoon in a car-motorcycle accident at 11th and Limit.

Donna Brennen, 24, 2231 West First Street Terrace, was operating a Honda motorcycle northbound on Limit when she collided with a car driven by Patricia Barbour, 20, Cole Camp, who was westbound on 11th.

According to police reports, the Barbour auto apparently stopped for a stop sign at 11th and Limit and then pulled into the path of the motorcycle.

Miss Brennen was treated and released at Bothwell Hospital.

appears to be," he said.

He also indicated he is continuing his efforts to encourage the implementation of a mandatory fuel allocation program to more equitably distribute the available fuel supplies in the country. He further indicated his belief that such a program, while not solving the problem, would at least insure that no one segment of the country suffers more than another.

Randall was introduced to the Rotarians by program chairman Bill Hopkins. Prior to Randall's address, the Rotarians present voted to table a resolution calling for the transfer of the meeting location from Bothwell Hotel to Ramada Inn.

Speaking briefly to the club before Randall was local Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. executive Bob Eidson who distributed petition blanks to all club members seeking to obtain the signatures of persons who feel that the City Council should pass the full-time mayor proposal approved by the voters in an opinion ballot last spring. Eidson emphasized that he was not seeking the endorsement of the club but rather was only distributing the petition to those club members who desired to sign.

Guests at the meeting were Harold Walker, a former Sedalian and now Rotarian from Pasadena, Tex., Lavern Riffel, Clinton; the Rev. Lawrence Stewart, guest of Aubrey Case; Darly Swain, guest of Pat O'Connor; Jake Siragusa, guest of Bill Hopkins; and Henry Salveter, Gary Edwards, Rick Spencer, Marvin Kueck, Ron Jennings and Kenneth Love, Jr., all guests of K. U. Love, Sr.

Group singing was led by Don Barnes with Firmin Boul playing the piano accompaniment. Invocation was by Charles Hofheins.

Conservation promising approach

WASHINGTON (AP) — Energy conservation was described today as apparently the most promising approach to solving environmental problems related to energy use.

The Council on Environmental Quality (CEQ) reached that conclusion, and several others, in a preliminary analysis designed to show how the environmental impact of various energy-producing systems can be traced and estimated.

The report concentrated on present fuel sources—coal, oil, gas and nuclear—and on those future sources that seem closest to reality, such as oil shale, coal gasification and the nuclear breeder reactor.

On a tentative basis, the CEQ concluded, "this report has significant implications for several aspects of a national energy policy.

"First . . . energy conservation, to the extent feasible, is the most environmentally desirable way to meet our needs.

Cash contribution for road repairs set by district

In a brief business meeting Tuesday morning at the 12-Mile Special Road District barn, 2502 South Grand, the district's board of commissioners voted to give the city of Sedalia $25,000 to finance road projects in the city.

The board has, for the past two years, maintained the policy of contributing money to help finance street projects that would be carried out by city street crews rather than have the work done by the 12-Mile crews.

The money will be transferred to the city "in the immediate future," Commissioner Duane Ewing said.

The board received no requests or complaints from district residents during the past month, it was reported.

Attending the meeting in addition to Ewing were commissioners C. H. Joy and Gib Owen, and district superintendent Ike Warren.

Stereo tape equipment is taken from car

Stereo tape equipment, valued at nearly $100, and a 12-volt battery, worth $25, were reported stolen from an auto sometime in July or August, according to police reports.

Daniel Dischler, 19, Whiteman AFB, told police that he had left the car at O'Connor Chevrolet while he was gone on leave and when he returned the items were missing. The car's console, valued at more than $80, was also damaged in the theft.

Three coin-operated laundry machines were broken into at the Broadway Arms Apartments, apparently between 7 and 8 a.m. Sunday. Joseph Neel, a maintenance man at the apartments, discovered the thefts in the unlocked basement portion of the building where the machines were kept. It was estimated that $10 in change was stolen and damage to the machines was set at $45.

Thomas Gowans, manager of Orscheln Farm and Home Supply, 713 West Main, reported to police that four rolls of barbed wire, valued at $65, were cut in several places with wire cutters. Police reports indicate that the wire was located in a compound behind the building. It is not known when the incident took place.

Four persons were arrested by police in the 1200 block of East Fifth at 2:36 a.m. Tuesday after a policeman on routine patrol stopped a car with California license plates and was told by a juvenile in the car that the vehicle was stolen.

Taken into custody for investigation of auto theft were George Gilbert, 42, Topeka, Kan., Sandra McMillan, 17, Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., and two juveniles. According to police, the car was apparently stolen in California by the two juveniles, both from California, and they later picked up the other two, who were hitch-hiking. A knife was reportedly found in the possession of one of the juveniles.

Strenuous exercise is not the best

Dear Dr. Lamb — You often recommend exercise and proper diet. It is not difficult to find samples of adequate diets and proper foods to eat for good health, but what about quality and quantity of good exercise?

Do you advocate exercise routines such as the publicized Royal Canadian Air Force exercise plan of 11 minutes a day, or do you consider this amount of time to be insufficient? What distances of walking would you recommend for optimum benefits at what ages?

Dear Reader — The RCAF exercise plan (Five BX Plan for Men or Ten BX Plan for Women) has many attractive features. Almost anyone can crowd its short duration of exercise into a busy schedule. The gradual increase in the level of activity is important. Any exercise program should begin at a low level and be gradually increased to the desired level to maintain one's physical fitness. Crash programs and overdoing it are the usual causes of trouble during exercise programs.

Some doctors have criticized the back arching and bending and twisting exercises in the RCAF plan. Individuals who have any spine problems should have a careful examinatinn before engaging in these types of exercises.

I am not enthusiastic about the RCAF plan's gradual increase in the speed of exercising. I prefer to have people exercise at a low or moderate level well below their maximum capacity, and then sustain this level of exercise for longer periods of time as their fitness is developed. It's better to walk three miles, if you can, than run in place at a rapid rate for one to five minutes.

For the general public at all ages, I recommend simple walking. Almost everyone in reasonably good health can walk 10 or 15 minutes at a comfortable rate. The walking period can be increased gradually. Most people should try to maintain a level of one-and-a-half miles a day for a minimal level — done daily without fail.

Before progressing to other exercises, one should gradually develop the ability to walk three miles in one hour. It may require several weeks to acquire this level of fitness. Individuals who can't achieve this level without difficulty should not engage in anything more strenuous without a medical evaluation. Individuals who tolerate this amount of exercise well can, if they wish, begin a jogging or running program in the middle of such an exercise effort.

About half way through a 30-minute walk, they may jog 100 steps counting when the left foot hits the ground. The number of steps can then be increased at a slow rate, say 10 steps a day until gradually the running or jogging program may reach as high as 15 minutes, or in young, healthy people may be extended. In this way, the amount of exercise can be increased gradually and safely.

Don't try to jog or run too fast. Jog within a rate of 50 to 100 steps a minute, counting as one step each time the left foot hits the ground or surface. Most of the people who get into trouble try to set speed records or compete against themselves or someone else. The increased speed can push the work of the heart beyond the safe level.

BUSINESS NEWS

Mrs. Verle D. Rothe, Route 2, and Raymond J. Kahrs, Star Route, Smithton, have been appointed to the Pettis County Committee of the Farmers Home Administration, according to John O. Foster, state director.

The county committee is composed of three members, each appointed for a three-year term. The other member is Sidney E. Morton, Knob Noster. Among the functions of the committee are determining eligiblity of applicants for loans and establishment of limits concerning amounts of credit that may be extended.

Cox gives summary of what he hopes to learn from tapes

WASHINGTON (AP) — Special Watergate prosecutor Archibald Cox has given the public his first detailed summary of what he hopes to learn about Watergate from tape recordings of presidential conversations.

Cox included the summary in a 68-page argument filed Monday in federal court in support of his request for a court order compelling President Nixon to surrender the tapes.

Nixon refused to comply with a subpoena from Cox demanding the tapes of nine presidential conversations.

U.S. District Court Judge John J. Sirica gave the White House until Friday to file any additional arguments and scheduled courtroom debate for Aug. 22.

The tapes demanded by Cox cover eight meetings and one telephone conversation between June 20, 1972, three days after the Watergate break-in, and April 15, 1973.

In his brief, Cox noted that on Sept. 15, 1972, after a federal grand jury had indicted seven men for their participation in the break-in at Democratic National Committee headquarters, Nixon met with H.R. Haldeman, then his staff chief, and John W. Dean III, then his counsel.

Dean told the Senate Watergate committee the President congratulated him for doing a good job. Dean said he interpreted Nixon's remarks as evidence the President was aware of the cover-up.

Haldeman, who told the committee he had listened recently to the tape of the meeting, said there was discussion of the Watergate case, but denied Nixon congratulated Dean on his efforts to thwart the investigation.

If the tapes confirm Dean's version, said Cox, "it will tend to establish that a conspiracy to obstruct justice reached the highest level of government ....

"If Haldeman's innocuous version of the meeting can be sustained, it is because the meeting only involved an innocent discussion of political interests. The question of Dean's perjury would then arise."

Cox offered some comments on other tapes he seeks:

—Meeting of June 20, 1972, between the President and aides John D. Ehrlichman and Haldeman. "The contemporary evidence of that meeting should show the extent of the knowledge of the illegal activity by the participants or any effort to conceal the truth from the respondent (Nixon)."

—Telephone call June 20, from former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell, then director of the President's re-election campaign, to Nixon. "This apparently was the first direct contact after the break-in between respondent and Mitchell ...."

—Meeting of June 30, 1972, between Nixon, Mitchell and Haldeman. Mitchell has testified it concerned his impending resignation as campaign director. It "strains credulity to suppose that Watergate and how Watergate affected Mitchell and the campaign were not topics of conversation."

—Meeting of March 13, 1973, between Nixon, Dean and Haldeman. Dean told the committee that Nixon said he had approved executive clemency for E. Howard Hunt Jr. and that there would be no problem raising $1 million to buy the silence of the Watergate defendants.

—Two meetings on March 21, 1973. Participants included Nixon, Dean, Haldeman, Ehrlichman and Ronald L. Ziegler, presidential press secretary. Haldeman quoted Nixon as saying there would be no problem raising $1 million. He added that the President said it would not be right to pay the money.

—Meeting of March 22, 1973. Participants were Nixon, Dean, Ehrlichman, Haldeman and Mitchell. "This meeting was apparently concerned ... with political assessments ... and is likely to reveal the knowledge and motives of the participants."

—Meeting of April 15 between Nixon and Dean. The ousted White House counsel told the Senate committee the President told him he had only been joking in his reference to raising $1 million and that he had been foolish to discuss executive clemency with Charles W. Colson, former White House special counsel.

THE SEDALIA DEMOCRAT
The Sedalia Capital

Published at Sedalia, Missouri, by The Sedalia Democrat Company

Seek local interest for Bicentennial

It's not too soon for Sedalia and Pettis County to start thinking about Bicentennial projects to take advantage of matching funds available for the multi-year celebration.

Dr. Richard Brownlee, chairman of the Missouri American Revolution Bicentennial Commission, announced Monday that $40,000 in matching federal funds are available to the state. The commission has set a limit of $5,000 for any one project.

The total amount is somewhat modest, and will, of necessity, have to be spread pretty thin over the state. But it can be a big help to local communities interested in taking part in the 200th anniversary of the American Revolution.

The Bicentennial observance will cover three broad areas. "Heritage '76" will focus on historical aspects, on the local and state as well as national levels, including educational programs, historic re-enactments and "examination of the principles of the founding of the nation as applied to modern society," in Dr. Brownlee's words.

"Festival USA" will cover the arts, athletics, fairs, exhibits and civic celebrations. "Horizons '76" deals with improving the quality of life by environmental and beautification projects.

Some local angles leap immediately to mind. The Scott Joplin Festival would appear to fall under the Festival USA category, and next year will be the 100th anniversary of the capture of Sedalia during the Civil War, which would be a natural for an historical re-enactment under Heritage '76.

There are no doubt many other local angles that could be explored in keeping with the Bicentennial themes. Now is the time to start thinking about them.

A conservative view

Down home chores provide perspective

By JAMES J. KILPATRICK

SCRABBLE, Va. — Some years ago, caught in the summer doldrums, I once proposed that the Congress, by law, abolish August. My thought was to take its 31 days, divide them up and spread them around. We could have longer Aprils and longer Octobers, and be done with fretful August altogether.

Kilpatrick

Now I am not so sure. August has its points. If it weren't for August, we would still be stuck in the Watergate hearings, suffering the sanctimonies of Senator Weicker. Because of August, it is possible to come home to these quiet, brooding mountains, to draw a smog-free breath, and to get a fresh perspective on the news.

I am more and more persuaded, as time goes on, that despite the millions of words that have been written of "Watergate" in the past 14 months, the real story has eluded us. It is not so important to determine who said what to whom in which meeting. The individuals in this drama are as insubstantial as those players who strut and fret their hour upon the stage and then are heard no more.

Our concern ought to be directed, it seems to me, less at the misdeeds of men and more at the abuse of power. Men come and go, weak men, stupid men, fearful men. We know how to punish the transgressions of men. But power is a timeless river, carrying in its passive currents both the potential for good, and the risk of evil. We know as much as we need to know about how power can be exercised, but we will never know enough about how power can be restrained. Because we have failed to fashion adequate restraints upon the power of the president, and upon the power of the men around him, we must endure this agonizing hour. New restraints, more effective restraints, will have to be found.

But there is more to think about in August in the country than the abuse of power by the White House, by the Senate committee, or for that matter, by the insatiable, ravenous press. Watergate seems happily far away. Our local papers are not much concerned with Watergate. They are more concerned with the shortage of beef, the price of grain, the widening of a road. They are concerned with death, birth, marriage, local politics, the sandlot ballclubs, a new minister in town. Life goes on.

My wife is making pickles — pickles and relishes and chutneys — a ritual act, performed with love and grace whenever August rolls around. We go to the garden in the cool of the early morning, with the two collies trotting agreeably along, and we pick cucumbers, zucchini, melons, tomatoes, blackeyed peas. The baskets overflow. Marveling, we harvest in August the hopes of May.

Now the gleaming jars stand in jeweled array on pantry shelves, relishes of rubies, pickles of jade, peaches of amber. The kitchen is redolent of vinegar, garlic, spices, dill, of herbs fresh picked, the fragrances of home. The women's libbers will never understand the proposition, or accept it, but it is as important to a country woman to pickle as it is important to a country man to get in the firewood. One measures fulfillment in pints, quarts, and split oak logs.

Last night we heard rumbles of thunder, and today the mountains are veiled by a hazy threat of summer storm. Across the ravine, Mr. Burke is making hay. He has a full crew working — two tractors, two trucks, a team of sweating boys. It is an operation as stylized as a square dance, a screen pass or a squeeze bunt. The baler grunts and chomps along the windrows, dumping the heavy bales behind; the boys run, the trucks fill up, the storm slips by, and by evening the work is done. Good earth, good men, and good machines; and so August passes day by quiet day.

The Republic will survive. Down in Washington, there is much talk of "paralysis of government." You might suppose the country is dying of corruption and decay. Don't you believe it. This country is pickles on the shelf and hay in the barn, and it is still populated mostly by people, whether they live in the hills or the plains or the cities, who look beyond the travails of a passing summer. They know that after August, good autumns and good springs will surely come again.

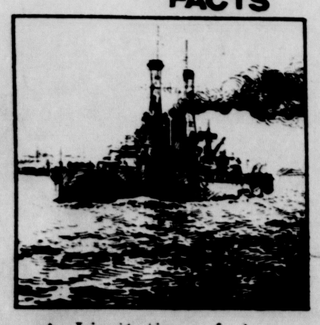
WORLD ALMANAC FACTS



A Limitation of Armaments Conference met in Washington, D.C., from Nov. 12, 1921 to Feb. 6, 1922. The United States, Britain, France, Italy and Japan agreed to curtail naval construction, and nine powers outlawed the use of poison gas and restricted submarine attack on merchantmen, The World Almanac recalls. The treaty was ratified on Aug. 5, 1925.

Tourists have own prayers

(Ed. note: Art Buchwald has gone off for a few weeks to forget about Watergate. He left behind some of his all-time favorite columns which he insists, to the best of his recollection, at that point in time and in hindsight, everyone wanted to read again.)

WASHINGTON — According to the Times of London, the Greek Orthodox Church has just issued a new prayer asking the Lord to protect the Greek people from tourists. The prayer, which is to be said by monks and nuns every morning and every evening, goes like this:

"Lord Jesus Christ, Son of God, have mercy on the cities, the islands and the villages of our orthodox fatherland, as well as the holy monasteries, which are scourged by the worldly touristic wave.

"Grace us with a solution to this dramatic problem and protect our brethren who are sorely tried by the modernistic spirit of these contemporary Western invaders."

Now it's only fair, if the monks and nuns are beseeching the Lord with antitourist prayers, that the tourists get equal time. So I have written a prayer for tourists which they must recite when they get up in the morning and go to bed at night.

It goes like this:

"Heavenly Father, look down on us, Your humble, obedient tourist servants who are doomed to travel this earth, taking photographs, mailing post cards, buying souvenirs and walking around in drip-dry underwear.

"We beseech You, oh Lord, to see that our plane is not hijacked, our luggage is not lost and our overweight baggage goes unnoticed.

"Protect us from surly and unscrupulous taxi drivers, avaricious porters and unlicensed, English-speaking guides.

"Give us this day divine guidance in the selection of our hotels that we may find our reservations honored, our rooms made up and hot water running from the faucets (if it is at all possible).

"We pray that the telephones work and that the operators speak our tongue and that there is no mail waiting from our children which would force us to cancel the rest of our trip.

"Lead us, dear Lord, to good, inexpensive restaurants where the food is superb, the waiters friendly and the wine included in the price of the meal.

"Give us the wisdom to tip correctly in currencies we do not understand. Forgive us for undertipping out of ignorance and overtipping out of fear. Make the natives love us for what we are and not for what we can contribute to their worldly goods.

"Grant us the strength to visit the museums, the cathedrals, the palaces and the castles listed as 'musts' in the guidebooks.

"And if, perchance, we skip a historic monument to take a nap after lunch, have mercy on us for our flesh is weak."

(This part of the prayer is for husbands.)

"Dear God, keep our wives from shopping sprees and protect them from 'bargains' they don't need or can't afford. Lead them not into temptation for they know not what they do."

(This part of the prayer is for wives.)

"Almighty Father, keep our husbands from looking at foreign women and comparing them to us.

"Save them from making fools of themselves in cafes and nightclubs. Above all, please do not forgive them their trespasses for they know exactly what they do."

(Together.)

"And when our voyage is over and we return to our loved ones, grant us the favor of finding someone who will look at our home movies and listen to our stories, so our lives as tourists will not have been in vain. This we ask you in the name of Conrad Hilton, Thomas Cook and the American Express. Amen."

Colson used memo to torpedo Finch

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — Outraged Republican leaders have accused Charles Colson, the former White House trouble shooter, of spreading whispers that Robert Finch suffered a mental breakdown in 1970.

The tale is disputed by no less than former Surgeon General Jesse Steinfeld, who examined Finch's medical records, spoke to his doctors and told us, "They found nothing seriously wrong with him."

But a memo originating in Colson's office has been used as part of a "poison pen" campaign to discourage California Republicans from backing Finch for governor next year.

Colson, whose politics run counter to Finch's liberal Republican views, vigorously denied that he had any intention of hurting Finch. Nevertheless, an angry GOP leader, referring to Colson's former role as White House aide-in-charge-of-dirty-tricks, told us, "Now, he's using his dirty tricks against us."

We have now seen the private memo out of Colson's office. Colson sent it to Secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare, Caspar Weinberger, whom Colson has encouraged to run for governor of California.

The memo was written by a former White House intern who reported to Colson on California politics.

"In talking to my California friends," he wrote, "I detect increasing concern about the gubernatorial election. Nobody, but nobody, is happy about Finch; on the other hand, he is clearly the strongest right now . . .

"Reinecke (Lt. Gov. Ed), whom Reagan (Gov. Ronald) and Nofziger (ex-White House aide Lynn) are running, is an idiot and a sure loser in the general (election).

"Another factor which has added to my personal concern is something which my friend (a Democrat with excellent connections on Capitol Hill) has told me. After Finch had his breakdown or whatever it was in 1970, Jesse Steinfeld, according to this guy, examined him and, apparently, had some other people look at him too.

"Steinfeld, good administration loyalist that he was, apparently was not too fond of Finch, and so circulated the examination reports among some Demos on the Hill. This guy has no reason to lie to me . . . in any event, he tells me he saw the report, and so did more than a few others, and while it's not disastrous, he says, it would raise Eagleton-type questions about Finch's ability to handle the job . . .

"I want to emphasize that I have no personal knowledge of this at all, but I do trust this guy and I do think it's a matter worth considering. I sure as hell would use it against Finch if I were running against him.

"If you do get interested in doing something about the California situation, there's nobody who could unite the situation out there more effectively than Cap Weinberger, who would make a damn good governor to boot — Reagan loves the guy and the northern California liberal types would be thrilled."

Steinfeld told us he never examined Finch. But with Finch's permission, Steinfeld studied his medical records and spoke to his doctors. "There was no nervous breakdown, no mental instability," said Steinfeld.

We also spoke to the author of the memo, who has now left the White House and could lose his new job if he were named. He insisted that he had merely passed on an unverified report in a memo he intended to be strictly private. His Democratic source, whom we also contacted, denied ever seeing Finch's medical records, as Colson's man had quoted him in the memo.

Colson told us he had sent the memo to Weinberger merely "to let him know that he would be a unifying candidate if he chose to run for governor. It was not intended on my part," stressed Colson, "in any way as a reflection on Bob Finch for whom I have enormous affection and regard."

PENTAGON BRIEFS: To encourage enlistments, the Navy decided to spend $500,000 to $1 million per ship to install new berths, bigger mirrors, paneling, carpets, new toilets, tiling and handsome decor. But the Navy decided to keep the Marines, who serve aboard Navy ships for short stretches, in their same old sardine can-like quarters, with only minor changes.

The Army's Tactical Data Systems at Fort Belvoir, Va., has found a way to get around Pentagon economy demands. One unit has bragged it can bring its costs down from $2.5 million to $1.5 million. But confidential Army documents show the unit plans to make the cut by firing several dozen employes and hiring outside contractors. One Army evaluator objected, saying it is "morally unconscionable to increase contractor space allocations while rifling (firing) personnel."

I spoke to the prophets; it was I who multiplied visions, and through the prophets gave parables. — Hosea 12:10.

The vision that you glorify in your mind, the ideal that you enthrone in your heart — this you will build your life by, this you will become — James Allen, American novelist.

Behold, on the mountains the feet of him who brings good tidings, who proclaims peace! Keep your feasts, O Judah, fulfill your vows, for never again shall the wicked come against you, he is utterly cut off. — Nahum 1:15

Peace is not made at the council table, or by treaties, but in the hearts of men. — Herbert Hoover

Leaders at work

Greg Beykirch (right), 16, just misses his birdie attempt on the sixth hole in the opening round of the Sedalia Junior Boys Golf Championship Monday at Walnut Hills. Mark Thomas (below), 15, after pushing his tee shot to the right on the second hole, chips up and gets into easy position for a par-three. The two are tied for the first-round lead with 76's.

Braverman needs only 22 putts

12-year-old golfer steals show from leaders in opening round

By VAUGHN HART
Sports Editor

Although Greg Beykirch and Mark Thomas share the first-round lead in the first-annual Sedalia Junior Boys Golf Championship, they almost took a back seat to 12-year-old Alan Braverman, who is only two strokes back of the leaders by virtue of his 78 in Monday's opening round at Walnut Hills Country Club.

The score itself says a lot for a 12-year-old, but his 22 putts on the first 18 holes is nothing short of super.

But that's not all. Braverman fractured his hand a week ago, in a motorcycle accident. It certainly didn't seem to bother him in Monday's round.

Braverman, who started on the eighth tee in the shotgun start, two-putted eight and nine and then rang up seven straight one-put greens (one through seven).

On the back nine, he one-putted 10, 12, 13, 16 and 17. He only two-putted 11, 15 and 18. To cap it off, he chipped one in from four feet off the green on 14.

"Most of them were six and seven feet out," Braverman said in the clubhouse. "I was hitting my approach shots real well . . . that was probably more important than the putts . . . getting the ball as close as I could," he added.

For his efforts, Braverman was awarded a trophy sponsored by WHCC greens-keeper Leo Richards for the fewest number of putts in the opening round.

Meanwhile, Beykirch and Thomas were trading 36's and 40's elsewhere on the 6,118-yard course in gaining a share of the first-round lead.

Beykirch made the turn in one-over, 36 fashion, while Thomas shot a 40 on the front nine. They traded scores on the back side and will take their two-stroke lead into Wednesday's second round at the Sedalia Country Club, where Thomas won the 15-year-old boys junior club championship less than a week ago.

Beykirch captured the 16-year-old boys title at SCC during the same tournament.

Greg Banaka, the 15-17-year-old Walnut Hills junior champion, is right in the thick of the 54-hole tournament, dispite a near disastrous 10 on the par-four, 395-yard third hole Monday.

Banaka put three shots out of bounds before finally getting on in eight and two putting the hole.

Banaka backed up his 43 on the front nine with a one-over 36 on the second nine holes for a first-round score of 79, where he is alone in third place.

Bill Beykirch, a younger brother of Greg, is deadlocked at 81 with Tom Price and Joe Bellmer for fourth place.

Dan Slagel is in fifth with an 83.

Greg Beykirch's only mistake on the front nine was a bogey-four on the 168-yard seventh hole.

He bogeyed 10 and took a double-bogey seven on the long 513-yard 12th hole.

"I almost hit it in the creek off the tee," the older Beykirch recalled. "Then I put it in the rough on the second shot . . . I finally got it down in two, after taking five to get on," he concluded. With exception of a bogey on the following hole, he played the back side in par fashion.

Thomas also double-bogeyed 12, hitting the ditch that guards the fairway on the right side.

But he got one of those shots back with a birdie on 17, where he rolled in a 12-foot putt.

Following Wednesday's round, which gets underway at 8 a.m. at the Sedalia Country Club, the field will wind up the tourney Thursday at Westmoreland Country Club.

Fractured hand and all

Leo Richards, the head grounds-keeper at Walnut Hills Country Club, presents a trophy he sponsored for the fewest number of putts in the opening round of the Sedalia Junior Boys Golf Championship Monday to Alan Braverman. Braverman (right), who is only two strokes off the lead with a 78, needed but 22 putts and won the award hands down. Braverman suffered a broken left hand in a motorcycle accident a week ago. He had it wrapped with an elastic band during the competition. (UPI)

U-High Colts hire former KC coach

WARRENSBURG, Mo. (AP) — The head football coach at Kansas City East High School for four years, Charles Nichols, was named Monday as head coach at Warrensburg University High School.

Nichols, 35, moves to the school which captured the Missouri Class A state football title in 1972. Nichols succeeds Perry Black, who became athletic director and head football coach at Moberly.

Cedeno, Roberts star

Stumbling Cards drop 8th consecutive game

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Dave Roberts pitched a five-hit shutout for the Houston Astros Monday night and was nearly upstaged in the process.

The club's Cesar Cedeno, the National League's All-Star center fielder, crashed into the wall but held the ball and helped the Astros flog the failing St. Louis Cardinals 4-0.

The gem in the second inning came before the scoring in a rain-delayed contest, the Cards' eighth straight defeat.

Cedeno, demonstrating the speed that makes him the NL's third-ranking base stealer, went to the 380-foot mark in left-center and leaped for a drive off the bat of Cards rookie Hector Cruz.

Umpire Terry Tata hesitated, then called Cruz out as the bruised Cedeno staggered to his feet and produced the baseball.

"That catch and Roberts pitching did us in," conceded Cards Manager Red Schoendienst, who watched his team's lead in the NL East Division shrink to two games.

"All I can say is that guy's a heck of an outfielder. If it hadn't been for that catch we would have been in front and might have won," said Schoendienst.

Cedeno's catch saved an inside-the-park home run that would have scored Joe Torre ahead of Cruz and put the Cards on top 2-0.

Afterward doubles by Bob Watson and Lee May showed the Astros in front and two Cardinals errors, one on a rundown, helped Houston score in the fifth.

Jim Wynn blasted Cards right-hander Mike Nagy, 0-1, for his 19th home run with one out in the seventh, and Tommy Helms singled home a run in the eighth.

"There was no doubt about the catch," Houston Manager Leo Durocher said in respect to Cedeno's sparkling play.

"Helms went out to get the ball and so did Watson, but he had it in his glove. If he hadn't, they 'd sure as heck have thrown the ball back in."

The slim Roberts, who struck out four and walked one, relied heavily on a slider to boost his record to 12-9 and become the fourth straight left-hander to trim the skidding Cards.

Joe Torre and Ted Simmons singled in the first four innings, then the 6-foot-3, 172-pound pitcher set down 12 straight batters.

"The slider was the best pitch I had going," he said. "I just kept the ball down and didn't have any trouble."

Petitions seek steel trap ban

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Petitions bearing 8,700 signatures were presented to the governor's office Monday urging the prohibition of steel traps in Missouri.

Jeff Miller, a free-lance writer from Kirkwood, Mo., presented the petitions and said the names represented a broad cross-section of Missourians, including many hunters.

Stargell inches Pirates closer to the Cardinals

By FRED ROTHENBERG
Associated Press Sports Writer

Willie Stargell doesn't plan to watch any television in the early days of October and Cincinnati Reds Manager Sparky Anderson doesn't expect him to.

It's not that the Pittsburgh Pirates' slugger has anything against TV. It's just that Stargell doesn't like the thought of watching other little men in knickers, shirts and caps playing on his screen for big money.

"Last year we had the best record in baseball and ended up watching the World Series at home," Stargell said after smacking his 34th homer and scoring another run in the Pirates nationally televised 3-2 squeaker over the Reds. "This year our record isn't so good, but maybe we'll be there."

Anderson is more certain. "The Pirates will be there when it's all over," he said.

For the record, the Pirates have not been playing as they wanted to extend their season beyond the regular schedule. But neither has the rest of the division, which is in jeopardy of having no teams with records on the happy side of .500.

Monday night's victory was a step in that direction as they cooled off a hot Cincinnati club that had won five straight.

Elsewhere in the National League, the Houston Astros shut out the St. Louis Cardinals 4-0; the San Diego Padres nipped the New York Mets 3-2 and the Los Angeles Dodgers stopped the Montreal Expos 8-5.

Padres 3, Mets 2

Pitcher Jerry Koosman scored a run in the ninth to snap a tie but gave back that run and another in the bottom of the ninth as San Diego rallied for a 3-2 victory over New York.

Dodgers 8, Expos 5

Willie Crawford homered and doubled and drove in four runs to lead Los Angeles to an 8-5 victory over the Expos.

The victory for Claude Osteen, 14-5, enabled the Dodgers to increase their lead in the National League's Western Division to 2½ games.

S-C X-country practice opens

Joe Simones, Smith-Cotton cross country coach, announced Monday that practice for the coming season will open Wednesday evening.

Simones requested that all boys, freshman through senior, interested in participating in this year's program, should report to Jennie Jaynes Stadium at 7 p.m. Wednesday.

Lem Barney brings 17-16 win

Lions ride blocked PAT

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Kansas City's Jan Stenerud had his first extra point in seven years blocked and as a result the Detroit Lions edged the Chiefs 17-16 in a National Football League preseason game Monday night.

"I don't know what happened," Stenerud said of the play by Lem Barney, who broke through the left side and blocked the kick with 1:18 left.

Barney knew what happened. "It was just a basic rush," said the seven-year cornerback from Jackson State. Mike Weger and "I shot in simultaneously."

In other NFL action over the weekend, the New York Giants downed New England 13-7 Sunday. Saturday's results were Atlanta 34, Baltimore 20: Green Bay 10, Buffalo 3; Cincinnati 45, Philadelphia 21; Chicago 34, Houston 7; Miami 14, New Orleans 13; New York Jets 34, San Francisco 14; Oakland 27, Dallas 26; Minnesota 10, Pittsburgh 6; St. Louis 17, San Diego 13 and Los Angeles 21, Cleveland 21. On Friday Washington downed Denver 14-10.

Kansas City Coach Hank Stram called it "a ridiculous way to lose." Detroit Coach Don McCafferty said it "was a great effort on the part of the extra point team. We could have let up and figured it was a tie game."

The attempt capped an 82-yard scoring drive put together by Len Dawson the first time he took the Kansas City quarterback helm this season.

Dawson started his 17th professional campaign when he entered the contest with 6:32 left and the Chiefs down 17-10. In 18 plays the Purdue grad hit on seven of 13 passes for 57 yards and made crucial first downs on fourth-down plays. His 10-yard scoring toss to Elmo Wright came on fourth down.

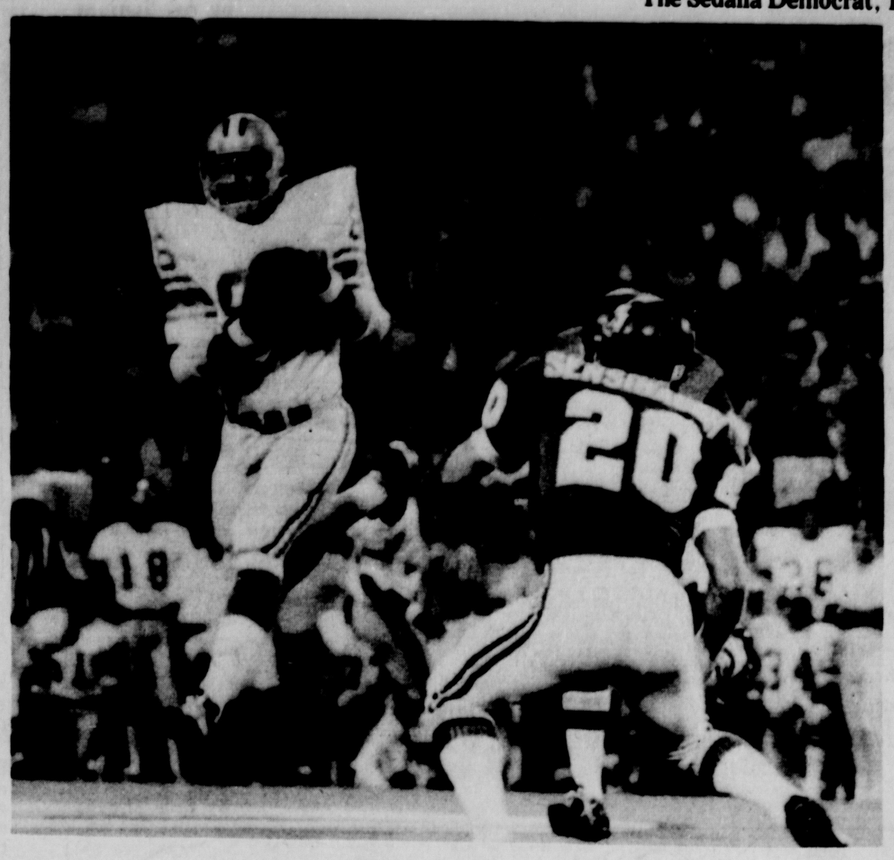
Greg Landry took over the Detroit quarterback role in the second half and led the Lions to victory. The Lions took the second half kickoff and drove 80 yards in 15 plays, with Landry scoring on a keeper from two yards out, giving Detroit a 14-10 lead.

The Lions held the Chiefs and took over on Kansas City's 48. Kansas City stopped Detroit on the four and the Lions settled for Errol Mann's 16-yard field goal and a 17-10 margin.

Barney set up the other Detroit touchdown with an interception in the second quarter. He picked off a pass by the Chiefs' Pete Beathard on the Detroit 31 and returned it to the two. Altie Taylor scored from there.

Kansas City took a 10-7 lead in the waning minutes of the half when Mike Sensibaugh picked off a pass by Detroit's Bill Munson who, when he was trapped, pitched to Emmitt Thomas who threaded his way to the end zone, the play covering 64 yards.

Stenerud kicked a 29-yard field goal the second time Kansas City had the ball.



Roarin' Lion

Detroit Lions' Charlie Sanders (88) seems to be walking about three feet off the ground as he comes down with this first-quarter pass from quarterback Bill Munson, during the Detroit-Kansas City pre-season game in Arrowhead Stadium Monday night. Sanders and Munson combined for eight yards, before Sanders was hauled down by the Chiefs' Mike Sensibaugh (20). (UPI)

Gerke's gains upper-bracket tourney berth

MARSHALL — Gerke's Grocery of Pilot Grove moved into the upper-bracket championship game of the district softball tournament here Monday night on Darrell Schuester's two-hit shutout over Boonville Falstaff, 10-0.

The victory moved Gerke's into Wednesday's upper-bracket contest with Pat O'Connor Chevy-Buick of Sedalia.

In Monday's other game, Prairie Home humbled Blackburn in the losers' bracket, 23-3. Blackburn dropped out of the double-elimination affair with the setback, while Prairie Home moves into a lower-bracket contest with Boonville. That game is scheduled for tonight at 9 p.m.

In Tuesday's other contest, Sedalia S-M Sporting Goods faces LaMonte at 7:30 p.m.

In addition to Wednesday night's O'Connor-Gerke's tilt at 9 p.m., tonight's winners will square off at 7:30 p.m.

University Games near opening under tight security by Russians

MOSCOW (AP) — Some 4,500 athletes from 76 countries made final training preparations today for the World University Games while their Russian hosts struggled with airtight security and a series of last-minute snarls.

Some American athletes who had been virtually trapped in the massive Moscow State University building where the competitors were quartered got their credentials straightened out and were allowed to leave the compound.

Foreign newsmen and some team officials were barred from the 32-story building the Soviets say has 45,000 rooms.

Soviet security precautions, normally strict, were increased at the compound on request of the International Federation of University Sports which feared the possibility of a massacre like that at Munich's Olympic Games.

The games will be conducted at several Moscow sports facilities, but concentrated in the Lukhniki Sports Complex and its 103,000-seat Lenin Stadium.

Preliminary fencing competition starts Wednesday morning, but the opening ceremony at Lenin Stadium won't be until that evening.

On Thursday, a full schedule of events begins—basketball, wrestling, volleyball, gymnastics, track and field, tennis and fencing.

The diving and swimming events won't be held until the final four days of the Games that wind up Aug. 25.

There was difficulty getting a line on many of the teams participating because of the security precautions and the lack of complete rosters.

It seemed clear, however, that the Soviet Union would field strong teams in all events and be motivated to make a good showing on home grounds.

All Soviet teams were considered good and are expected to be the main challengers to the Americans in the swimming events.

The Americans as usual, have strong men's and women's swimming teams. The track and field team is not America's best—minus such stars as high jump world record holder Dwight Stones and runner Dave Wottle. There are only a few members of the men's national team that met the Russians last month in Minsk.

The Americans have brought a good, young basketball team to these Games and hope to avenge the controversial 51-50 defeat at the hands of the Russians at Munich.

But the Soviet team will have many Olympic basketball veterans back for the games and the Cubans also have an experienced squad.

U.S. cagers remember Olympic basketball loss

MOSCOW (AP) — The ignominy of the controversial 51-50 loss to the Russians in the Munich Olympics last year still burns deep in American basketball hearts, but coach Ed Badger is trying to keep the fire low with his young team here for the World University Games.

"Sure, we think about it—how can we help it?" said the coach from Chicago's Wilbur Wright Junior College during a break in the Yanks' first workout here. "But I'm trying to keep the boys from thinking too much about the Russians now.

"You can climb only one mountain at a time. If we get too fired up pointing to the Russians, we might get our wings clipped by the Cubans. We don't want that.

"Emotionally we are attempting to stay on a level keel."

When the Russians beat the Americans in the Olympic final—having been awarded a second chance after time had run out—it marked the first defeat for an American team in Olympic basketball competition. The Yanks had won 64 straight games over a 36-year period.

In the 1971 Pan-AM games at Cali, Colombia, the Americans were upset by the Cubans, who will have virtually the same lineup here.

The Americans will be bidding for revenge in these student games, opening Thursday, with one of the youngest, fastest and most promising squads ever fielded for international competition.

"Our team averages only 19 years," said Badger, who was an assistant coach when the team won the silver medal at Turin, Italy, three years ago.

"We are a fast-break, aggressive team, predicated on quickness."

The youthful Yanks will be carrying a 13-0 record into the round robin playoffs. After beating two pro all-star teams in the United States by more than 25 points, the collegians took off for Europe, where they compiled an 11-0 mark against top-flight European foes.

They whipped the national teams of Poland, Canada, Czechoslovakia, Bulgaria and Yugolsavia in sweeping to tournament victories at Warsaw, Prague and Sofia.

"We won 11 games in 14 days—the closest anybody has come to us is 14 points," Badger said. "We're a bit flat at the moment, physically tired, but we'll perk up."

Khoury League picnic Wednesday

The Girls Khoury League Softball picnic and awards dinner will be held Wednesday night at 7 p.m. at the Centennial Park shelter house.

All players, managers, coaches and board members are invited to attend, as well as their immediate families.

Trophies will be presented to the members of the first and second-place teams in each of the four divisions.

All girls who played in the league this past season will be presented participation certificates.

Heavy hitters take over in NBC tournament play

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — Slugging figured in all three games Monday in the National Baseball Congress tournament at Wichita.

Kankakee, Ill., took a 9-7 lead into the eighth inning against Huntsville, Ala., but saw it crumble as Alabama scored six runs in the eighth to win, 13-9. The six runs scored on a combination of three hits and two errors.

Wichita, Kan., hammered Eleanor, W. Va., 10-3, knocking out starter Tommy Carr in the fifth inning. Denny Spitzer, the winning pitcher, had three of Wichita's 11 hits.

Dodge City, Kan., dumped Lexington, Ky., 8-1, pounding out 11 hits against three Kentucky pitchers. Jerry Lasponara had a home run and two runs batted in. Rick Simpson pitched a two-hitter for Dodge City.

Today's schedule has Framingham, Mass., meeting Kankakee, Ill.; Wichita, Kan., vs. Worthington, Ohio; San Juan, P.R., vs. New London, Conn.; and Eleanor, W. Va., vs. Lexington, Ky.

Correction

SWEET SPRINGS — It was incorrectly stated in Monday's Democrat and Tuesday's Capital that Sweet Springs finished as the consolation winner in Saturday's Lafayette-Saline County Women's Softball Tournament.

Sweet Springs captured third place over the Higginsville Women with its 17-4 win.

Hank Aaron to get more protection while on road

ATLANTA (AP) — Henry Aaron will be well protected as he travels on the road with the Atlanta Braves in National League cities.

"It's nothing major. It's rather routine, in fact," said Braves Vice President Dick Cecil Monday, confirming that extra police protection had been requested for Aaron out of town.

"We've talked to each club about being aware of any potential problems and trying to avert any problems, especially as Henry gets close to the record," said Cecil.

Aaron, who has slammed 28 home runs this season, is just 13 shy of the all-time career record of 714 set by Babe Ruth.

Aaron will try to improve his mark of 701 today when the Braves face the Chicago Cubs in Wrigley Field.

The 39-year-old Atlanta slugger has reportedly received hate mail and occasional abuse from fans in the stands.

Cecil said there were no specific instructions to the other clubs regarding Aaron. "They know their ball parks better than anyone else."

Houston seeks to brighten 1-13 record of 1973

'New look' Oilers start season with revised roster

HOUSTON (AP) — When last year's crop of Houston Oilers produced only one victory, management decided to plow everything under and start over.

Sid Gillman was hired on as foreman of owner Bud Adams' spread and wasted no time culling what he considered chaff from wheat. Gilman made 19 player trades before the Oilers reported for pre-season work at Kerrville's Schreiner Institute.

Gillman's plan is to head off a repeat of last year's 1-13 record, the worst in the National Football League, and return the Oilers to their glory days of the early 1960s.

Houston's record earned the No. 1 selection in the pro football draft, and the Oilers may have received the best price per pound for their choice of any team in many seasons.

Although the Oilers' offensive line was a disaster area in 1972, Coach Bill Peterson grabbed Tampa defensive tackle John Matuszak, 6-feet-7 and 290 pounds.

Although a defensive end in college, Matuszak is expected to fit into the Oiler plan as a starting defensive tackle beside Greg Sampson, last year's No. 1 selection. Former Dallas Cowboy Tody Smith and veteran Elvin Bethea will man the ends.

Houston's biggest defensive weakness could be its linebacking corps, depleted last season when Peterson traded away George Webster and Ron Pritchard.

A pleasant surprise at middle linebacker in Houston's 16-13 exhibition loss to the New York Jets was rookie Greg Bingham. Third-year veteran Floyd Rice and Phil Croyle fill out the linebacking corps.

Willie Alexander and Benny Johnson are the cornerbacks since hard-hitting Zeke Moore moved from the corner to a safety position with Bob Atkins.

The Oilers have three top quarterback prospects in Dan Pastorini, Edd Hargett and Lynn Dickey. The biggest Oiler weakness last season however, was keeping them healthy with one of the most porous offensive lines in the league.

Gillman's big move there was to snatch all-pro center Bill Curry, along with his three championship rings, from the Baltimore Colts to lend leadership and stability to the line.

Comebacks by last year's casualties, including right tackle Elbert Drungo and guard Richard Cheek, also could help.

The arrival of Paul Robinson and Fred Willis from Cincinnati aided the Oilers' running back corps, but it barely got above the anemic stage last season.

Peterson hopes added strength in the offensive line and help from running back George Amundson, a No. 1 draft choice; Willie Rodgers; Al Johnson and Lewis Jolley will give the Oilers a running attack with more teeth this season.

Gillman, who dealt away many of the Oilers' draft choices to get the players he wanted, said he wasn't finished.

"I will trade away our draft choices for next year and then I'll start on 1975—just give them all away," Gillman said. "I'll do whatever it takes to start winning right now."

Opening lead—♥K

IMP matches are definitely the best test of bridge skill, but even here there is a tremendous element of luck.

Now take a good look at the South hand. You respond one diamond to your partner's club opening. He rebids clubs, you raise him to three and he bids three spades.

It is clear that his spade call is some sort of cue bid. Is he suggesting a slam; asking you to bid three no-trump if you can stop spades or maybe telling you that he can stop spades and wants you to try no-trump if you can stop hearts.

At Table 1 in an important team match South decided to bid three no-trump with his near stoppers in both major suits. North thought it showed a sure heart stopper and passed.

South was most unhappy with the king of hearts lead. He didn't have to be. East held just one high heart and no matter when he took it the suit blocked and only four heart tricks were available to the defense.

At Table 2 South decided against three no-trump and took his partner to five clubs. East opened the 10 of spades and declarer had to lose three tricks.

Rice shortage?

Talburt Wong loads a customer's car with 50-pound sacks of rice as a rice panic hit Chinatown San Francisco Saturday. Most stores are completely out of rice as hoarders, acting on rumors, cleaned out stores' supplies. Meanwhile, prices jumped from $10 to $14.50 per 50-pound sack. Local merchants say there is no real shortage of the rice, grown in Texas. (UPI)

Chrysler showing new cars

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Chrysler Corp., started showing its 1974 models to newsmen Tuesday, on the theme that nothing succeeds like success.

Its two top operating men reported it has produced 300,000 more cars and trucks so far this year than at the same point a year ago and is gearing to go higher.

It plans to make 25 per cent more compact cars, 20 per cent more trucks.

Even so, the major model changes it has wrought for 1974 are confined to its big-bodied cars—the Plymouths, Dodges and Chryslers.

For the first time in 13 years, it is introducing a new line of medium size trucks; and it has a new line of sports utility vehicles.

John J. Riccardo, Chrysler's president, and Eugene A. Cafiero, vice president of its North American automotive group, made their assessments and predictions in speeches prepared for newsmen and automotive writers from all over the country.

"We see continued strength in the economy," Riccardo said. "According to our best economic indicators, there will continue to be growth for at least the next eight quarters."

Cafiero said:

"Our lineup of products for 1973 exceeded even the high hopes we expressed for them a year ago. Providing a lot more car for a little more money proved to be a highly successful strategy."

Chrysler applied to the Cost of Living Council Monday for authority to raise prices on its new cars and trucks by an average of $71 or 1.7 per cent.

The new Dodges and trucks were to be previewed this afternoon, the new Plymouths and Chryslers Wednesday morning.

Cafiero promised that each of the re-designed big cars will be distinctive.

"A Plymouth Fury isn't going to be confused with a Dodge Monaco or a Chrysler," he said.

The bumpers designed to comply with new government requirments for absorbing greater impacts will also permit the shortening of some of the big cars by as much as six inches. All will have more leg room in their front seats.

All of them can have an air conditioning system which will move 65 per cent more air, and there will be a ventilating blower in cars without air conditioning.

All of the big cars will have V-8 engines, with new versions of the 360 and 400 cubic inch sizes available.

All of the instrument panel switches and controls, and those on radios, can be removed from the front for easier servicing and replacement.

In compact cars, the main change is extending the Valiant sedan wheelbase to 111 inches so it can be offered in a four-door version.

Riccardo noted that Chrysler increased its share of the new car market this year from 16.6 per cent to 16.8 per cent and its share of the truck market from 10.2 to 11.7. It would have gained more, he said, if it had not already been operating at capacity.

"There is a lot of talk about the shift to small cars," Riccardo said. "Let me point out that Chrysler's strength is in the small-car market. We sell more small cars as a percentage of our total volume than either of our major American competitors. Any continuing trend to small cars means more total sales for Chrysler."

In addition to the 25 per cent increase in capacity for producing compacts, Riccardo said there will be a substantial increase in capacity for the intermediates.

"In all this talk about the accelerating trend toward small cars, I would like to point out that one-third of all cars sold in 1974, including imports, will be full-size automobiles."

Cafiero said Chrysler is continuing its efforts to simplify cars so they will be more reliable, easier to service and maintain and easier to make.

Better bumpers and the interlock system which will not let the engine start until seat belts are buckled were two tough federal requirements for 1974, Cafiero said.

"We haven't just met the law—we have turned them into genuine assets," he said. "I think the public is going to be surprised how well this starter interlock seat belt system works and will accept it much more readily than some of you have anticipated."

Who is youth involved in murders?

HOUSTON (AP) — Who is Elmer Wayne Henley Jr.?

Is he the considerate elder of the family, trying to fill an absent father's role, going to his brothers' school to check on their progress?

Or is he a sadistic killer, doing the bidding of some monstrous homosexual Fagan, helping kill 27 teen-age boys in the worst and most bizarre murder spree in recent U.S. history?

In the small holding cell under brilliant lights, waiting for a court hearing Monday, he seemed more frail than his 120 pounds, younger than his 17 years.

After the hearing, he almost begged his attorney for some way out of jail where he said other prisoners were abusing him. The answer was, "No." Henley's expression didn't change.

He was taken into custody last Wednesday after calling police to say he had shot and killed Dean Allen Corll, a 33-year-old man he looked to as a brother. He said he killed him to save the lives of two other potential victims.

Then he and David Owen Brooks, 18, took authorities on a tour of three burial sites that by now have yielded 27 bodies and may yield more.

It was Brooks' statement that first gave an insight into Henley's possible role. Brooks described in detail many of the slayings, and in one of them said two boys named Billy and Johnny were killed:

"Wayne strangled Billy and he said, 'Hey Johnny,' and when Johnny looked up Wayne shot him in the forehead with a .25 automatic. The bullet came out of his ear, and he raised up about three minutes later, and he said, 'Wayne, please don't.' Then Wayne strangled and Dean helped."

"He was just one of the crowd," said Wayne's minister, the Rev. Matt Chambers of the Fulbright Methodist Church. "When he was on the playground or in the fellowship hall with the other kids, he was no different from any boy....

"I didn't even take the boy to be nervous or upset.... The greatest problems he talked to me about was his mother and family. He had a deep sense of responsibility and felt he was the breadwinner."

The church was only five doors from the small white frame home where Henley lived with his mother, his grandmother and two brothers. His father dropped out of sight after a divorce.

The minister visited Henley in jail Saturday night at Henley's request, and the two prayed together.

His attorney says that, up to 4½ months ago, Henley was taking a tranquilizer for nervousness. A neighbor says he used to stare into the distance, distracted as though he were sedated or had been drinking.

Henley's attorney, Charles Melder, met Wayne for the first time in a jail cell Saturday. He said the boy was "disoriented ... shaking like a leaf virtually. I had to tell him what day of the week it was.

"He is not normal," Melder said. "He does not act normally. He is intelligent. But I think he does have real mental problems."

Accordingly, Melder has orally and will in writing ask for a psychiatric examination. Melder has told newsmen his defense will be "not guilty" because of insanity.

Talking to newsmen at one of the gravesites, Henley described Corll as "more of a brother-type person, somebody I could talk to."

"Then why did you kill him?" a newsman asked.

"I was tired of him doing things like that. And it was either me or him right then," Henley said.

Elmer Wayne Henley had a record as a juvenile. He was arrested for assault with a deadly weapon in 1971, for burglary and theft of a residence in 1972. He was found guilty of delinquency and put on probation.

Several boys in his neighborhood now recall with some misgivings suggestions from Wayne Henley in the last several weeks that he and Dean Corll might take them fishing.

Fresh price rises on top of recent food increases

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

The pocketbook pinch worsened during the first two weeks of August as the nation prepared for further price hikes with Monday's debut of Phase 4, an Associated Press market-basket shows.

The AP has been keeping tabs on 15 food and nonfood items in 13 cities across the country since March 1, rechecking the prices at the beginning of each month with special surveys in between.

A check made Monday showed fresh price rises on top of already-healthy increases that turned up earlier.

The AP surveyed the prices in 12 cities Monday. The prices in Providence, R.I., normally the 13th city in the market-basket, were unavailable because stores were closed due to a state holiday in honor of VJ Day.

The survey showed that, from July 31 to Aug. 13, 22 per cent of the 180 items checked in the 12 cities went up in price; 8 per cent went down in price; 57 per cent were unchanged; and 13 per cent were not available on one of the two check dates.

An earlier check showed that 17 per cent of the items in the 12 cities went up in price between July 23 and July 31. Six per cent went down during that period; 65 per cent were unchanged; and 12 per cent were unavailable.

The results sounded like a broken record: eggs and pork chops led the list of higher-price items again.

Food prices, except for beef, have been rising ever since President Nixon announced in July that processors and sellers could pass on increases in raw agricultural products. Beef prices are frozen until Sept. 12, despite meat industry efforts to get the ceiling lifted.

Further price increases—to reflect additional increased costs—will be allowed under Phase 4 on food and nonfood items. Large manufacturers must give 30 days' notice of their intention to raise prices, while smaller companies can up the bill immediately.

The total marketbasket bill in the AP survey was up in nine of the 12 cities checked. Most of the decreases were due to special sales on one particular item, rather than general declines.

Eggs went up in price in 10 of 12 cities in the period from July 23 to July 31 and were unavailable in the other two. They rose still further in 8 of the 10 cities in the period between July 31 and Aug. 13. They stayed the same in one city, went down in one—Salt Lake City—and were unavailable in two.

The price increases between July 31 and Aug. 13 ranged from 4 per cent in Philadelphia, where eggs went from 99 cents to $1.03 a dozen, to 28 per cent in Los Angeles, where they went from 69 to 88 cents a dozen. Eggs already had gone up 25 per cent—from 79 to 99 cents—in Philadelphia between July 23 and July 31, and they rose 11 per cent in Los Angeles during the last week of July.

The price of a pound of center cut pork chops went up in 7 of 12 cities checked during the last week of July. Pork chops stayed the same in four cities and were unavailable in one.

In the first two weeks of August, pork chops went up again in all of the seven cities where they rose earlier, went up in two of the cities where the price had remained stable, dropped in two and were unavailable in one.

Increases in the price of pork chops between July 31 and Aug. 13 ranged from 3 per cent in Atlanta, where they went from $1.85 to $1.91 after remaining steady earlier, to 10 per cent in Philadelphia, where the price per pound went from $2.05 to $2.25.

Beef prices remained fairly steady, as did those on nonfood items. There were scattered instances of hikes in the price of frankfurters, however, and more and more shoppers found stores were out of beef.

The cities used for the AP survey are: Albuquerque, N.M.; Atlanta; Boston; Chicago; Dallas; Detroit; Los Angeles; Miami; New York; Philadelphia; Salt Lake City; and Seattle. The items in the survey are: chopped chuck, pork chops, orange juice, coffee, paper towels, butter, eggs, peanut butter, detergent, fabric softener, tomato sauce, cookies, all-beef frankfurters, milk and sugar.

The marketbasket was up everywhere except Boston, Albuquerque and Miami.

Proponents argue for campus Gay Lib group

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — Is homosexuality an illness? What affect would a sanctioned organization of homosexuals have in the community?

Disputes over these and other questions sparked an eight-hour hearing Monday on the proposal for the University of Missouri to recognize a campus group known as "Gay Lib."

University counsel James Newberry argued that homosexuality is abnormal and an illness which requires treatment. Recognition of Gay Lib as an approved campus organization would be harmful to the university and the community, he contended.

Gay Lib witnesses argued that homosexuality is not an illness, but merely a deviation from what society considers normally acceptable behavior.

There was conflicting expert testimony from psychiatrists called by both sides.

Lawrence Eggleston, leader of the Columbia Gay Lib group, testified the group "seeks to promote meaningful communication between all members of the university ... with candor and compassion on both sides."

He said the group does not intend to promote homosexuality, but just to increase an understanding of it.

"The fear of the unknown can be eliminated," he said. "The scars of past repression can be healed."

Over the objections of a Gay Lib attorney, Newberry questioned Eggleston closely about his private life. The hearing officer, Cullen Coil of Jefferson City, did not allow most of the objections.

The Gay Lib attorney, Lawrence Kaplan, argued the group had met all university requirements for recognition, such as presentation of a constitution and a statement of purpose.

H.J. Waters III, editor and publisher of the Columbia Daily Tribune, argued in favor of recognition, declaring the group would have little impact on the community. He was the only witness outside the university community who appeared in favor of recognition.

Another hearing is scheduled Wednesday on the Kansas City campus where another group, the Gay Peoples Union, is seeking recognition.

Coil, a former commissioner of the Missouri Supreme Court, will study the testimony and make a recommendation to curators.

Nixon preparing Watergate speech

WASHINGTON (AP) — In a hideaway office surrounded by mementos of his quarter century in public life, President Nixon is putting the final touches on what could be the most important speech he's ever made.

It will be about Watergate, the scandal that has shaken his administration.

It will be made this week, probably Wednesday or Thursday, on national television.

What will the President say?

Not many people know.

Nixon consulted only a half dozen or so of his closest aides and advisers during a five-day Camp David stay that ended Sunday, and only a few on Monday as he worked in his executive office building suite.

Presidential spokesmen will not say when the speech will be made, much less what it will contain. "The President hasn't finished it yet," one spokesman said.

But the indications, hints, and nuances drifting through White House and political circles point toward an address including these major elements:

—A denial by the President that he was aware of plans to bug the Democratic National Committee, or that he was aware of or participated in the subsequent cover-up. This will be coupled with a condemnation of such acts.

—An admission that he did not pay enough personal attention to allegations that White House and re-election committee officials were involved in the scandal, and acknowledgement that what he thought was a thorough investigation by his subordinates really wasn't.

—A recitation of his first term accomplishments and an assertion that he will not allow Watergate to deter him from his second-term goals of lasting peace abroad and an end to inflation at home.

—An urgent plea for the American people to rekindle their confidence in their government and join him in overcoming the impact of the scandal.

Nixon is expected to stress what aides call the "big picture" in a philosophically-toned television address, leaving a point-by-point rebuttal of Watergate allegations to a written document also due for release this week.

Farm roundup

Farmer, consumer peace talks urged

WASHINGTON (AP) — The president of a division of a major holding company is calling for peace talks between America's embattled farmers and angry consumers.

Joseph P. Sullivan, president of Estech Inc., said: "Finding a common meeting ground of shared needs and goals is the only way the communications gap can be bridged. In a nation with a long tradition of problem-solving, this task is most definitely not insurmountable."

Estech is a chemicals and industrial products division of Esmark Inc., of Chicago, whose other divisions include Swift & Co., Vickers Energy Corp. and GSI Inc.

Sullivan deplored "a growing polarity between food producers and shoppers" and said that fear and a lack of understanding on both sides are the causes of the friction.

"News of another meat boycott or demands that a lid be put on fresh produce sends chills up the farmer's spine. He is in doubt also to whether to grow more or less, when he should market. And his farm, his very livelihood, is at stake," he said.

Meanwhile, he said, "the housewife hears of rising prices and shortages and wonders how she'll be able to continue to provide a nutritious diet for her family. The farmer is a likely target for her fear, because she doesn't know him or understand him.

"The most important thing for farmers and urbanites to learn is that their goals are very similar, even if their lives are very different.

"The urban or suburban housewives should be aware that the farmer has to put food on his table, too, and it's not free. At the same time, farmers should know that the person who works in an office or factory is having trouble making ends meet, too."

He called for a program—he did not say who might operate it—to inform the nonfarm public of the farmers' risks and the farmers of the nonfarm families' problems "in the daily grind of trying to feed their families" with food prices their highest in two decades.

———

WASHINGTON (AP) — The first signs of a tight fertilizer market for 1974 are in, says the president of the Fertilizer Institute.

Edwin M. Wheeler said his organization's June fertilizer index showed "alarmingly low" reserves, especially for nitrogen stocks which were 50 per cent below June 1972 stocks.

High export demand and consumption's running ahead of production for many fertilizer products were responsible for fiscal year-end inventories being 38 per cent below 1971-72.

Demand is bound to increase, he said, under the national policy of maximum farm production, prodded by the Agriculture Department's "no set-asides" ruling and reduced farm-support programs.

———

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two large meetings of those on the production side of the food-to-home chain are scheduled for September.

Here on Sept. 12, the steering committee of a group formed by Rep. Jerry Litton, D-Mo., plans to meet with a similar organization to plan strategy for what Litton calls a "maximum unification within American agriculture, to tell the farm story to urban America."

The other organization is the National Agricultural Institute and the National Agricultural Communications Board, which merged last week with Litton's group as a result of June's "Farm Summit" here.

In Atlanta on Sept. 28, about 300 participants are expected to attend the International Agribusiness Forum, sponsored by the American Society of Agricultural Consultants.

In the meantime, a coalition of consumer-oriented watchdog groups will be out on the hustings with its "Food Action Campaign" to increase public awareness of the influence of corporate agribusiness on food prices and marketing.

Guardsman witnessed check of fired gun at Kent State

WASHINGTON (AP) — A former Ohio National Guardsman present at the 1970 Kent State University shootings says he witnessed a campus patrolman seize a gun from a photographer, then exclaim, "My God, it's been fired!"

The former guardsman, Michael Delaney, said he saw Terrence B. Norman turn over the .38-caliber revolver to the patrolman two or three minutes after a fusillade of bullets killed four students and wounded nine others.

Norman's presence and activities on the campus apparently will be part of the renewed Justice Department investigation of the shootings.

Whether Norman's gun was fired has become a key point of dispute.

Norman, who now works for the riot-trained special operations division of the District of Columbia police department, has refused comment. His attorney could not be reached in several attempts Monday night.

Delaney, who also works in Washington, said in an interview that he did not examine the gun himself but overheard the patrolman who took it from Norman say instantly that the weapon had been fired.

Although Delaney said he did not know the patrolman's name, the FBI has identified him as Harold Rice.

Delaney's account is similar to the report of a Little Rock, Ark., newsman who also was at Kent State. The newsman, Fred R. DeBrine, said he saw Norman turn over the gun and heard him say, "I had to do it. They were trying to kill me."

DeBrine also said the campus policeman handed the pistol to campus detective Thomas Kelley, who opened the chamber and exclaimed, "My God, he fired four shots. What the hell do we do now?"

Kelley has denied making the statement and declared last Tuesday, "The gun had not been fired."

DeBrine said Monday night that Delaney was present and had witnessed the encounter with Norman.

A former newsman, Delaney said he was at the time a public information officer for the guard and had been assigned to issue press credentials to newsmen covering the campus disturbances.

He said he reluctantly issued credentials to Norman after a university official told him Norman "had done some work for the FBI."

Delaney said the matter of the press credentials enabled him to recognize Norman at the encounter following the shootings.
